General Information

Short summary

A fashion Belgian (Walloon) designer is looking for an experienced manufacturing partner specialized in premium and luxury handbags. The company should be able to produce small-to-medium production runs while ensuring high-quality craftsmanship, premium materials, and excellent finishing standards. Preferred locations are Italy and Portugal, with Turkey also considered.

Full description

A Belgian fashion designer is seeking an experienced manufacturing partner for the production of her premium handbag collection.

The handbag models have already been developed and the first pieces have been successfully produced. To support the commercial growth of the brand, the designer is now looking for a manufacturing company capable of producing larger quantities while maintaining the highest standards of quality, craftsmanship and brand identity.

The collection targets the premium and high-end fashion market. Particular attention is therefore given to superior craftsmanship, premium materials, refined finishing, durability and attention to detail.

The sought partner should be able to manage small and medium-scale production runs and, over time, support increased volumes as the brand expands. Previous experience working with premium brands, independent designers or luxury fashion houses would be a significant advantage.

Italy and Portugal are preferred locations due to their internationally recognized expertise in luxury leather goods and fashion accessory manufacturing. Turkish manufacturers with proven experience in premium handbag production are also encouraged to express their interest.

Advantages and innovations

The project combines creative design with a strong focus on quality, sustainability, and premium positioning. Their originality and practicality are also key features of these bags.

Key advantages include:

Original handbag designs developed for the premium fashion market.

Focus on craftsmanship, aesthetics, and attention to detail.

Potential for a long-term collaboration covering multiple future collections.

The designer values close cooperation and transparent communication throughout the product development and production process.

Technical specification or expertise sought

The sought partner should possess expertise in high-quality handbag manufacturing and be able to provide some or all of the following capabilities:

- Development of prototypes and pre-production samples from design specifications.
- Expertise in leather goods manufacturing and premium fashion accessories.
- Ability to work with genuine leather and other high-quality materials.
- Pattern making and technical product development.
- Material sourcing support, including premium leathers, linings, metal hardware, zippers, and accessories.
- High-quality stitching, assembly, finishing, and quality control processes.
- Capacity to produce small and medium production runs.
- Flexible minimum order quantities, especially for market launch phases.
- Strong quality assurance procedures and production traceability.
- Respect for confidentiality and intellectual property protection.
- Previous experience supplying premium, luxury, or designer fashion brands.
